

Do's and Don'ts

This document is NOT meant to be given to your client.

DO	DON'T
- When giving a home care routine to a client who is very young or very mature, DO opt for milder products, especially cleanser and toner. - If a client is not dry or dehydrated, DO adjust their home care as directed in the Product Usage Schedule. - Once a client is getting close to being out of a product, especially serums, DO consider strengthening the serum if they are still breaking out. You will need to test their skin with the new serum before giving it to them. If the client can tolerate the next level of serum (feels a 2 or less on a 1-10 scale of tingling, stinging, and/or burning), have them alternate the weaker serum with the stronger one until the weaker serum is finished, then continue to use the stronger serum every day. - If your client was on antibiotics prior to seeing you, the Face Reality's Clear Skin Restore supplement may be of benefit to them because it contains probiotics. Always advise clients to check with their doctor before starting any new supplements. DO treat chest acne as you would face acne. The chest tends to be more sensitive than the back. DO use hydraRemedy™ Gel Serum under Advanced Acne Med if your client is dehydrated. Add clearDerma Moisturizer, Cran-Peptide Cream or Barrier Care Gel Cream after Advanced Acne Med if your client is dry.	- If a client comes in for a treatment and is dehydrated, dry and flakey, DON'T adjust their home care to something stronger. You may have to adjust it back; if not that dehydrated, keep it the same. - Before you strengthen your client's routine, check your client's product usage to make sure they are compliant. DON'T strengthen their routine unless they are compliant with the current routine. DON'T give clients products that are too strong, especially in the beginning. For example, we rarely give anyone Glycolic Toner, 11% L-Mandelic Serum or 15% L-Mandelic Serum for the face. Those are only used with exceptionally tough acne, if tolerated; and we would never start a client with those strengths.
