Morpheus8 Pricing

- Always sell 3 sessions upfront rather than single sessions — patients who don't see dramatic results after one session won't return ▶
- Collagen builds over time, so setting expectations for a multi-session process is key to retention ▶
- Face/Neck: $3,500 for 3 sessions; $1,250 per session ▶
- Morpheus Burst Deep (body):
 - Small area: $3,500 ▶
 - Large area: $4,500 ▶

- Large = full abdomen, inner thighs; small = arms, knees (can vary by patient) ▶

Scar Treatment with Morpheus8

- Treatable scars include surgical scars (tummy tuck, belly button, breast lift), stretch marks, chest, and hyperhidrosis ▶ ▶
- Pricing: ~$500 per session; adjust based on size and time required ▶ ▶
- Newer scars (months to ~5 years old) respond best; very old scars are harder to treat due to sun exposure ▶ ▶
- Typically 3 sessions; very old scars may need a 4th — do not exceed 4 sessions ▶ ▶
- Can combine with other treatments to improve results on stubborn scars ▶

Tip Add-On Pricing

- Resurfacing tip (superficial, 0.05 microneedling): add $600/session or $1,500 for 3 sessions when combined with the standard 24-pin tip ▶ ▶
 - Standalone resurfacing tip pricing is separate (lower) ▶
- Prime tip (12-pin, smaller): targets nasolabials, eyes, and mouth area; ideal for patients hesitant about blepharoplasty ▶
 - Add-on: $400/session or $1,000 for 3 sessions ▶
 - Standalone prime tip pricing is lower due to smaller area coverage ▶

Lumeca (IPL) Pricing

- Always book 3 sessions; no consumable costs (only gel), so pricing is flexible ▶ ▶
- Favorite combo area: face + neck + chest — typically $2,600, can discount to $2,400 to incentivize on the day ▶
- Encourage add-on areas (e.g., hands + neck) since it requires no numbing and minimal extra time ▶ ▶

- Sun avoidance before and after treatment is critical — always ask patients to be honest about sun exposure ▶

Combination Treatments

- Morpheus + Lumeca: ~$1,800/session; sell all 3 for $5,000 ▶ ▶
 - Lumeca provides immediate visible brightness while Morpheus builds collagen over time — keeps patients motivated ▶ ▶
 - Treatment order: Lumeca first (with ultrasound gel), then numbing cream, then Morpheus ▶
- Forma + Lumeca: Great for needle-averse patients; 8–10 sessions, recommend selling 8 ▶
 - 8 sessions for $2,600; no consumables for either device ▶
 - When adding Lumeca as an add-on to a Forma appointment, discount Lumeca 30–40% ▶
 - No numbing needed, so both can be done efficiently in one visit ▶ ▶
 - Confirm treatment order with Lauren (likely Lumeca first, then Forma) ▶ ▶

Forma Pricing (6–8 Sessions; Recommend Selling 6)

- Face: $2,000 | Neck: $1,500 | Face + Neck: $3,000 ▶
- Eyes: $600 | Jaw/Submental: $1,500 | Nasolabial Folds: $600 ▶
- Forma Plus (body): Abdomen, arms, inner/outer thighs: $2,000 each ▶
 - Lower back: recommended to reduce to ~$1,400 (area is smaller) ▶ ▶
 - Knees: recommend reducing to ~$1,000 (very small area) ▶

Discounting Strategy

- Morpheus8: max 20% discount — must account for tip consumable costs ▶
- Forma + Lumeca: more flexible — no consumable costs beyond gel ▶ ▶
- Position Morpheus vs. Forma by time commitment: 3 Morpheus sessions vs. 8 Forma sessions for better results ▶ ▶

- For events or upsells: consider listing a higher "regular" price and showing a "special" discounted price to increase perceived value ▶ ▶
- Print and display pricing so patients can see the value of any discount being offered ▶

Event Planning & Next Steps

- Team is planning a Morpheus/InMode launch event; waiting until after the Vegas InMode event to organize ▶ ▶ ▶
- Follow-up meeting scheduled: the 25th at 11:30 AM — InMode rep will cover full event planning, including patient targeting, RSVPs, partner reps, and pricing for the event night ▶ ▶

Faiton Neck 3500, one session, 1250. What I recommend in specific to the Morpheus, try to always sell the three sessions just because if they get one session and they feel like they didn't get as a big result as they would have wanted, they're not going to come back for other sessions. So I would definitely just book up front the three sessions and just let them know like this is a little bit of a process.

It takes a little bit of time to build up that collagen. we can keep them engaged for those three sessions, okay? Okay. Then we can also treat scars with your Morpheus. So if you see surgical patients that have undergone plastic surgery, sometimes they have a tummy tuck scar that they don't like, a belly button scar, a breast scar, like a breast lift, and they don't like how their scar is looking, we can actually treat it with Morpheus to get rid of that pigmentation in that scar.

We can treat the chest as well. The stretch marks also really good area to treat. They'll get really good results from it. And then hyperhidrosis, you can also treat with Morpheus. And this is the, we just price it for like a package of three. So you can see the average pricing for three sessions. Now for the burst deep, which is your body treatment, we have it split between large and small area. Typically 3,500 for a small area or 4,500 for a large.

What would we consider a large? Full abdomen is a large area. Inner thighs is a large area. Yeah, and then you can always treat arms, I would say, as a small area intermediate, depending on the patient. If they want to do like the knees, it's a small area as well. Kind of think about it like that way, but you can again take this into consideration. And, um... just, you know, vary depending on the patient and the area.

So to go back to the scars, it is 500 per session for scars. Would that be, like, even if they only have, like, just one scar that they really don't like that they're, or what if they have, like, Two or three, how would you?

Again, vary it depending on the size and your time. So if it's something that is not going to be too time-consuming for you, you can leave it about 500 for the scars. Typically, it's only per one, but I think that's a little much if they have a minimal scar that they just want to get rid of. Maybe they fell as they were kidding and have a little scar on their forehead. So you could always vary it depending on the patient. That's what I would recommend.

And for old scars, sessions really enough to get rid of it? Well, not rid of it entirely, but like for the majority?

You can always say we could start in three sessions. And if you need a fourth one, we can just see where you're at. For very, very, very old scars, I think you might need four sessions. Okay. That is just three. You're never going to need more than four. Okay. If it's not four sessions, then you know that it's not going to do anything for them, unfortunately.

So it's not, you know, recommended to do more than four.

And if they can, saying like, well, I paid all this money and it's not, it's still there. Like we just.

It's going to be a change. It's just on their, unfortunately on their skin to see how big of that change is going to be. But you can combine a couple of other treatments together with the Morpheus and see if we can just get a better result. But I would definitely, if it's something that's like a scar that's 20 years old, you know, it's unfortunately they've already, you know, spent time in the sun.

It's already a little bit more difficult. Think of like newer scars, something that's a little bit five to, you know, a couple of months, things like that, like five years to a couple of months, I would say. That's a good time to treat it. And then I'm sure Lauren went over the resurfacing tips for your patients. Yes, we used one actually. Perfect. Typically, Inmode recommends that you add on the price.

For the treatments, so for example, if you're using a resurfacing tip on top of the Morpheus regular tip already, then they would do recommend to add about $1,500 for three sessions or $600 per session. If you're going to be using both tips in one treatment. Okay.

Okay. So add $600 if you're adding it in or $1,500 for three sessions? Yes. Correct. Okay.

Correct. And then this pricing that you see here, left it's just if you were going to do the resurfacing tip and not use the 24 pin tip okay okay So again, same thing for the prime. If you're gonna be adding a prime, so think about a patient that just wants to touch up more areas in their nasolabials, eyes, around the eyes. If you're gonna be adding the tip, so again, we're using a 24 pin and then we're gonna change the tip to a prime tip, add on 400 or a thousand for a package of three, okay?

Okay. And then this is the recommended pricing if you're only going to be using a prime tip. So again, we should be treating only the areas around the eyes and the mouth with the prime tip because it's a smaller tip. So you're only going to have 12 pins. So it's definitely only going to be a smaller area. So the pricing for the treatment is a little bit less. Because you're covering less areas.

Okay, and the prime tip is just the one with less needles?

Yes, the 12 pin instead of, yeah, the little smaller tips.

Sorry, I'm thinking about this.

It just, it helps kind of get a little bit of the trickier areas. So then if you want to target more of the nasolabials, a lot of patients with very much pronounced nasolabial folds, so right under that around the mouth area, if they, for example, if they're interested in doing a blepharoplasty, but they're kind of scared and they don't want to undergo the treatment, we can treat around the eyes with the prime tip and just go a little bit, you know, harder in those areas to treat it as much as we can.

So it just kind of helps get really into those smaller areas. Okay. And then of course, you know, the resurfacing thing is a 0.05, so it only has like a very superficial micro-neutrality.

Awesome. Okay, Lumarca.

This is split between, it's very specific. So if it's like three sessions of the legs, if it's one session of the legs, again, for all of our treatments that need to have various, always try to book the three sessions instead of just the one. Again, if you have a pain, they also combine here like face, neck, and chest, which is my favorite. Typically, if they are getting sun on their face and they're getting sun on their neck, hyperpigmentation obviously in the chest, reds and browns. So if you have a patient coming in for face and neck, you could always charge them a little bit less if they want to do face, neck, and chest. So kind of like an add-on that day.

If you want to do, hey, like you're going to get more out of it if you do more than, you know, two areas if you want to do three. So you can always, instead of charging, I would say $2,600 for those three, maybe you could go. If you're interested in, you know, typical pricing for those three areas, 2600 but if you do it today we can do it for 2400 you know you don't have You don't have any consumables with your Lumeca, so you can obviously vary this pricing a lot.

Because again, you don't have to purchase a tip for it, so it's not going to cost you anything except for the gel to do these treatments.

So you can always just be, you can always come up with different packages with your Lumeca.

And the more you add on, the more obviously you're going to make. But again, the only thing that's going to take is a little bit more of your time, but you're going to make a lot of extra money if you're adding on more areas. So if you have a patient, for example, like coming in for their hands, you can ask, hey, do you want to do a spot treatment? They're like another area that you're interested in. You can also do their neck.

their hands, if it's an older patient that just gets a lot of sun, especially if they go to the beach a lot. So always try to add on more areas. They're already there and it's not going to take them any longer. They're not going to have to numb for it. So I would definitely recommend just trying to add on as many areas as possible.

Okay, so these are all the prices for the Lumeca, but if you want to add in the Lumeca to the Morpheus, how would you price that? Because she said that was like a popular combination. Right here.

So we scrolled a little bit down, we're going to see the bundling options. Morpheus and Lumeca, it's typically like around $1,800 per session. So you get two treatments for $1,800. Okay. My favorite, if you can get them to do those together, they're going to get amazing results. They'll see pretty significant change with the Lumeca right away. Obviously, they're going to look more lifted. They're going to have that brightness of the skin, and then obviously the Morpheus after.

Okay, and so this is priced for two treatments. So once they're combining it, you're getting more effects faster. So do you really not need the three treatments with that?

You do need the three treatments for sure. is just that you're getting two treatments in one. So we kind of bundle it together and they'll see better results, obviously, because you're going to see the brightness from the Lumeca, whether the Morpheus takes a little bit longer to see results. That's why I like to combine them both because once you do your first Morpheus, you're going to look a little better after your first treatment, but it takes time to build over that collagen.

So some people don't want to keep going through with it because it takes longer, things like that. Both of them together, they're going to see results right away from the Lumeca. So they'll think, okay, both of these treatments are making me look this good. They don't necessarily know exactly what's doing what, you know? Yeah. But they'll be able to see results right away, which makes a difference for your patients.

Okay.

So then that's $900 a treatment if you're doing two. So would you just do a little bit less if you want to bundle into three? Or, like, say you buy these two, then we'll do the third one for how much? is our way to do that.

Let's say, let's add it up. So it's about 1799. for a treatment um so this is what times three it's about five thousand three hundred and ninety seven for the three treatments you can sell all three for five thousand all three for five thousand okay Yeah, and I'll shoot you an email after this with everything that we talked about, so you'll be there, okay? So you don't have to worry. Okay. And then you guys have four miles as well, correct?

What was that? The Forma? You guys have it as well? Yes. Perfect.

So you can also combine Forma and Lumaca. I love these two together. Gets more of a lifted look. If you have a patient that's a little bit worried about the needles, and they, for example, like your grandma, she might be worried about the pain after.

You can always do Forma. It's just Forma is going to take a little bit longer because we're not puncturing the skin with the microneedling.

So it's just the radiofrequency. So this is a great option for those patients that are, you know, they don't want to do the needles. They want less of a downtime. They could always come in and do the formaldehyde and the lumeca. So this is about, this is the pricing for eight to ten treatments. This is the pricing combined, okay? Okay. This is your total pricing if they want to do, I will always recommend doing eight.

You're not gonna need more than eight treatments for these, okay? So you can do eight treatments for $2,600. And the Forma and the Lumeca goes over very easily because you're already going to have the gel, so you can do one and then go do the other. You don't necessarily have to. Did you guys do, like, Morpheus and Lumeca together?

She said that we... Couldn't... No, no, we did not. We didn't. I don't think we did. No.

No, we didn't. If you're going to do a Morpheus and a Lumeca together, you would do the ultrasound gel, do the Lumeca first, then wipe everything down, put numbing cream, and then do the Morpheus.

So it's a little bit of a longer process. Okay.

So did... Correct me if I'm wrong, but did she say that we could not do the Forma and Lumeca in the same treatment? I thought that's what she had said when we were therewhen she was here. I don't remember that part.

I remember her saying we can do the two treatments together.

I knew we could do the Morpheus and the Lumeca. I just thought that we couldn't do the Forma with it because... I don't know. Maybe I'm not remembering correctly.

You can always text Lauren if you have her number, and I can share it with you guys if you don't. But you can always text her and ask her the questions. But, yeah, you can do Forma and Lumeca together for sure.

And you would do the Forma after the Lumeca?

I typically, I think you do the Forma after, if I'm correct, but text her, and she'll get back to you and let you know, okay? Okay.

Yeah, but you can do them together. It's just radio frequency.

So I would say do it after the Lumeca, but, you know. Okay.

You can always confirm with her. Do you mean, Amber, do you mean possibly the Lumeca with the Morpheus?

No, I knew that we could do that together because we were going to do that with Logan's mom, but we didn't have the numbing, so we just did the...

Yeah.

Morpheus.

Yeah, you can do them together. Okay. Yeah.

And then we have, you guys have the dial A's, if that's correct, right?

No. Confusion?

We just have the Morpheus, Lumeca, and Forma.

And format. Okay, perfect. So we don't have any laser hair removal.

Okay.

Forma, 6 to 8 treatment protocol. Again, I would recommend try to always say all about 6 instead of 8. You're not going to make that many treatments for the Forma. So you can price it at this, $2,000 for the face, $1,500 for the neck. Face and neck, $3,000. Eyes, $600. The jaws and submental for $1,500. And the nasolabial folds for $600. This is again for six treatments. So for $2,000, they're getting six treatments on Forma done. Okay.

And the Form Up Plus, which is obviously your larger areas, the abdomen for $2,000, the arms for $2,000, the inner and outer thighs for $2,000, lower back $1,750, and the knees for $1,500. I do feel like there's a little price here if they're just doing the knees. So I would... This comes, this a little bit, okay? Because you can do like $1,000 for the knees, succession of the knees. The area is very small, if you think about it.

So you can come down from this a little bit. The abdomen and the arms are typically bigger areas, so it's going to be harder, a little bit more passes and stuff like that, so that this is fine. Okay. And then maybe the lower back a little bit. I think that's a little bit much for just the little, the low handles if that's what they're interested in.

Lower back. So like then like 14 or 1400.

Yeah, that's pretty good for the lower back for six sessions.

Obviously you get more out of the combination of both the FORMA and the LUMECA. So if they're already coming in and they want to look more lifted with the FORMA, you could always have the conversation of like, look, you can also look brighter if we do the LUMECA IPL. You just have to make sure, obviously, that they're not in the sun before or after treatments. But if they want to add it on that day, you could always just add it on to their procedure.

So if you're going to add it on, what I recommend is discounting your Lumeca. I would say 30 to 40 percent, they're going to be adding it on to their treatments. Okay? Okay. That way they're doing two treatments in one. You don't have any consumables with either one, but you're making more out of your appointment with your patient.

And it takes less time.

Yeah, it takes less time. So they don't need to numb. They don't have to be waiting in there.

So it makes a difference for sure. Okay. Ooh. How does that pricing sound There's a little bit of a section here on how to handle the cost objection with your patients. Obviously, you guys have been trained by InMode. You have to put value within your time, your knowledge, and the treatments themselves. So these are treatments that don't require a lot of downtime, just pretty much the Morpheus and just staying off the sun. It's like the most important thing you need to do.

So just putting values in your treatment and your knowledge as well. Okay.

Does everything there sound good?

I think so. It definitely helps a lot if we want to try to sell packages. Because, I mean, looking at the price, obviously we have them. But knowing what we can and cannot discount so that we don't undercut too much.

You don't want to discount too much as your Morpheus, thinking about your consumables that you have with it. So thinking about the money that you have to spend buying tips. That's why if you're going to discount the Morpheus for a specific patient that maybe you know that they need a little bit of a push, able to do their treatments i wouldn't discount it more than 20 to keep you profitable with your time with your tips and with the treatment so if you're going to discount amorphous 20 at most okay okay But you can, again, be more flexible with your form and your Lumeca because you don't have to purchase anything except ultrasound gel.

So again, it's not going to cost you anything. It's just a matter of the value within your treatment. Okay. Yeah, but again, if you have a patient that's more concerned about pricing, you could always start with a Forma or a Lumeca treatment and then at some point move them over to Amorphias. You can say, yeah, it's a little bit more expensive, but you're going to get better results with treating the skin from the inside with the microneedling and obviously the radiofrequency that comes within the needles.

So it's a little bit more painful, but we're getting results faster than with eight sessions of Forma, if that makes sense. Yeah.

So you could always, you could always kind of recommend both.

Just be like, so what is your time worth? You can come in here three times and be done with the treatments or you have to come in eight times, you know?

And kind of position it that way.

How much longer, well I might have to ask Lauren, but do you know how much longer the downtime would be like with the Lumeca plus Morpheus rather than just Morpheus alone?

So the Lumeca, you just have to take into consideration the time that they have to be off the sun before and after treatment.

Okay, but like pain-wise, I guess it's not more...

No, they don't have any pain with the Lumeca at all. Did you get it done?

You try it out?

Well, I did, but I didn't combine it on myself with Morpheus. So I didn't know if there was a good one.

There's no pain with the Lomacar. It's just the staying off the sun is the most important part, like their aftercare and before. You have to tell me, honestly, if I can give you some advice, if you can just have your patients be, you can be like, hey, like be completely honest. Have you stayed off the sun? You know, because that obviously can have them have not great results and burn their skin. So you can always be like, just be completely honest.

us you know switch the debate rather than you have hyperpigmentation with your treatment or anything like that um so just have them be completely honest if you can sometimes sometimes they're not Awesome!

So did that answer some questions from you guys? How do you feel? Yeah, for me.

Yeah, I'm glad.

Have we thought about maybe doing an event for your Optimus? We really want to.

I just-I don't know.

If we, like, who we contact or what, how do?

Carson's supposed to organize all that. He said he was, but I've not heard anything.

Maybe we're waiting until after the event in Vegas. Okay.

Awesome. So you get to go to Vegas. Have fun. I know. I'm excited. I'm going to be so excited. The wind is amazing. You guys are going to have a great time.

So I will help you plan your event.

So if he said he was going to do it, he means me. So if you guys want to wait until you come back from Vegas, just get all that good knowledge.

They're going to share some good tips on events, patients, combination of treatments, all that good stuff. We can have a meeting once you guys are back and we can plan the event. So I'll help you guys with patients to target RSVPs, pricing for that night, who we're going to invite, if we can have other providers, I'm sorry, other reps from there, like if you have any skin care, any other treatment in the office that we can partner with, we can do that as well. So I'll go over all the event planning section of it, okay? Perfect.

Yeah, I think it would be best if we did wait until after the event because then we'll know more and then it gives us a little bit of time to focus.

you You guys are gonna be gone, let's say, you guys are gonna be gone next week, so I'm just gonna put a meeting in the book so I don't forget, because unfortunately I just have a lot of patients and clients at meetings, so I don't want to forget, so let me see.

Is there, like, a way that you can share the, like, the meetings with us? Because I didn't, like, I mean, I just don't know where to look, because I had no idea about a meeting on Friday. Okay.

Oh, no worries. Yeah, I'll share it over email as well, if that works. Okay, yeah, that'd be perfect. If you guys are available, we can meet on the 25th. So you guys will be back from Vegas on Sunday or Monday, depending on when you guys are going to get back.

But then if we have a meeting that Tuesday, we can plan the event, if that works.

I think that should work. I think we get back the 23rd. So yeah. Okay.

Let's do around the same time, 11:30. Perfect. Okay, awesome.

So, whatever. I'll put it on my calendar and I'll send it over email as well.

Unfortunately, I can't link my email with my Zoom.

That's okay. I can save the link as long as I just know about the meeting.

Yeah, yeah, for sure. So it will be, again, on the 25th, and I'll remind you on the email as well, okay? Perfect. Okay, perfect.

I'm going to do event planning that day and I'll go over everything then I'll share a little checklist that I have for the events as well. Okay.

Awesome. I'm really excited.

If you guys want to put something together for your pricing, or again, you could always print this pricing out and have it in the office. If you're going to just give a patient an extra discount, that way they can see what is your regular pricing for this treatment and they can see the value on the discount as well. So whatever you guys want, if you create your own pricing and you want to share that with me, I could always look at it as well. Okay. Whatever you guys want.

I want to work on that today and then kind of use this one as a cheat sheet and then like a separate cheat sheet for to make it sound more discounted.

Of course. Yeah, absolutely.

So I have a lot of times my providers for events will have both regular pricing and special pricing.

So if you want to go up a little bit in your pricing and then discount it so it looks a little bit better, you could always do that.

OK, so I recommend that as well.

OK, perfect. Awesome. I'm available through email or text. So let me know.

And then I hope you guys have so much fun in Vegas.

I'm not going to be able to attend, but I'm super excited for you guys. And then Carson will be there.

If you ever meet a person named Christina, she's my boss up in, she manages the region. She's from Tennessee. So she's going to be there. So if you need anything from me and I'm not there, text me and I'll connect you with her if you guys are in Vegas. Okay. Perfect.

Thank you so much. Thank you. I appreciate it. Thanks so much. Have fun. Thanks. Bye. Bye.
